Inclusion during Admissions & Graduation Rate

JGU's efforts towards applications from underrepresented groups including women, and monitoring their success.

01

Tracking women's application rate, acceptance rate & study completion rate:

As an aspiring world-class global institution, JGU lays a strong emphasis on developing a diverse, multicultural student body that draws on students from varying socioeconomic backgrounds, gender, age, geographical origin, sexual orientation, race, religion, ethnicity, caste, and abilities.

In our effort to maintain diverse student body and empower students from marginalized communities, including women through equitable quality education the university actively monitors the application and acceptance rates for all students from marginalised communities in India and across the world. The university has partnered with NoPaperForms, which is India's largest and most advanced SaaS-based education CRM system for this endeavour.

The staff in the admissions office at JGU use NPF to manage our application and admissions process. The system helps track and manage applications for all our undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral programmes. The CRM allows us to capture over 100 data points for each application including gender (Men/Women). The admissions team also uses this information to track the application, acceptance and entry rate of women candidates to various programmes at JGU.

JGU also lays a strong emphasis on mentoring students through their journey at the university. For this we have instituted a robust Faculty-Student Mentorship initiative across all our academic programmes. Each new student is assigned a faculty mentor that serves as a guide through their time in the academic programme. JGU is also one of the few universities in Asia that maintains a 1:8 faculty-student ratio and appoints faculty members from India and different parts of the world with outstanding academic qualifications and experience. The university also ensures that students have easy access to faculty, a supportive peer group, world-class reading resources and campus infrastructure that aids in ensuring that all students receive the support required to excel in academics and extra-curricular's.

The faculty also work in close coordination with the examinations, Dean's office to actively monitor each student's (including women's) performance and programme completion rate. Grades of all students and performance reports are stored online in the University Management System (UMS) and help the faculty and staff take informed decisions in identifying students that need support and also in developing schedules for extra classes, counselling sessions, workshops etc.

Measurement of tracking women's likelihood of graduating compared to men's:

The faculty also work in close coordination with the examinations, Dean's office to actively monitor each student's (including women's) performance and programme completion rate. 03

Measuring and tracking applications from religious/ethnic minorities, low income students, non-traditional students, women, LGBT students, and disabled students:

We have partnered with NoPaperForms which is India's largest and most advanced SaaS-based education CRM system to manage our application and admissions process. The admissions team at the university uses the system to track and manage applications for all our undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral programmes.

The system helps JGU track applicants from varying socioeconomic backgrounds, gender, age, geographical origin, religion, and caste. The application form has specific mandatory questions around these aspects that each candidate needs to respond to in order to complete his/her application to the university.
