by

Teesta Setalvad

Civil Rights Activist and Journalist

Abstract:

What does it take to build a legal strategy in cases of communal violence? What tactics, both inside and outside courts, are crucial in marshalling a credible legal case when state institutions are hostile? Join the Hate Crimes Clinic to hear one of our most experienced human rights activists, Teesta Setalvad, as she shares her experiences on building a human rights campaign, supporting victims, securing witnesses and fighting court cases.

Short Bio:

Teesta Setalvad is a reputed civil rights activist and journalist. She leads the Citizens for Justice and Peace as its Secretary. She has led numerous high-profile legal cases against anti-minority sectarian violence in Gujarat.
