'Framed as a Terrorist': Conversations about Criminal Justice
by

Mohammad Aamir Khan

How does the criminal justice system treat the accused and the convicts? What does the world look like from inside the jails? What is the toll of judicial delay? What does it take to prove one's innocence?

Mohammad Aamir, the acclaimed author of the book 'Framed As a Terrorist', spent 14 years in jail since the age of 18 on false terrorism charges. He will talk about his experiences with the police, courts, public prosecutors and jail authorities.

About Speaker:

Mohammad Aamir Khan was born in 1977. In 1998 he was kidnapped, tortured and framed in eighteen bomb blast cases. It took him fourteen years to prove his innocence and now he is a free man. He has been widely interviewed by national and international media and has used the opportunity to speak eloquently on issues relating to human rights and democracy.
