

China's Response to Russia-Ukraine Crisis

4th Feb '22

President Xi and Putin release a joint-statement condemning NATO's ambition of expansion

21st Feb '22

Russia invades Eastern Ukraine, a day after the conclusion of Beijing Winter Olympics

21st Feb '22

Zhang Jun, the Chinese Envoy to the UN, announces that Beijing is willing to welcome diplomatic talks to address the Ukrainian issue, in the UNSC Emergency Meeting

24th Feb '22

Zhang Jun expresses that China is trying to promote peace talks in its own way

26th Feb '22

China abstains from voting on a Security Council draft condemning Russian invasion

3rd March '22

China abstains from voting in the General Assembly on a resolution that condemned 'Russia's aggression in Ukraine'

4th March '22

China abstains from voting on a draft resolution in the UN Human Rights Council that authorised the formation of an independent international commission of inquiry in view of Russia's invasion into Ukraine

8th March '22

President Xi expresses that Beijing, Paris and Berlin must collaborate and help in the mediation of peace talks between Moscow and Kyiv

15th March '22

Chinese Foreign Minister, Wang Yi, expresses to Spanish Foreign Minister, Jose Albares, "China is not a party to the crisis, still less wants to be affected by the sanctions."

16th March '22

Qin Gang, Beijing's Envoy to the U.S., opines that China would've stopped the war from happening if it had knew, and dismisses claims that alleged China to have known about the war

18th March '22

President Xi urges President Biden to call on NATO nations to hold dialogue with Moscow and end the war as soon as possible

19th March '22

CGTN, China's State-Affiliated Media, tweets, "Can you help me fight your friend so that I can concentrate on fighting you later?"- Clear expression of China's stance

20th March '22

Wang Yi states, "China is on the right side of history over Ukraine war," in response to threats by Washington.

A brief timeline overview of China's response to Ukraine-Russia crisis

