

Dear Reader,

Are you ready for a challenge?

Because, I challenge you – to think, to observe, and to perceive. I want you to think about everything you do and everything you don't. I want you to observe all your actions. I want you to be mindful of your actions. We live in a world with our norms and think in within the construct that we've grown up in. We act in certain ways and we perceive our surroundings with those pre-existing norms. I want you to think beyond these rules, not as yourself but as your alter ego - create anything you would not really create as yourself!

There is one rule: don't stop thinking.

Hope you have fun & Happy creating!
